OCTOBER NEWSLETTER ROOM 9

Dear Families,

Welcome Fall! We will have a lot of exciting events this month, the main one being Wax Museum on October 17. We have already started the process and are providing class time to complete the poster board. The reading on their “characters” will need to be completed at home. We sent out flyers with the details but of course see me with any questions.

Our fourth years will investigate factors and multiples this month and begin looking for the greatest common factor and the least common multiple. These lessons will prepare them for fraction work that will take place later in the year. They will also continue studying the periodic table and learn the parts of cells. Our fifth grade class is beginning to look at early civilizations and just learned the importance of agriculture to humans. They also started the square root sequence and learned to multiply fractions. Our sixth grade group started on their year long Island projects and the cube root sequence!

Parent/Teacher conferences are this month, sign up sheets are on the check-in counter in the classroom. All students except fourth years will lead their own conference, fourth years will start leading their own in the spring. I love conferences and the opportunity to connect with everyone!

See me with questions!
