

JANUARY NEWSLETTER ROOM 7

Hello Friends!

Happy New Year!! Welcome Back to School! We hope you had a warm memorable Christmas. We are excited to be back and are ready to explore new things.

We will finish up with composer John Tesh who has really “wowed” us with his ability to spice up the traditional sounds of the instruments in the orchestra. We have peeked into a concert at a castle in Ireland and then here in North America on Catalina Island.

Get ready to embark! We will venture out to a new continent, Antarctica! Where penguins outnumber people and temperatures are more than chilly!! They are downright cold! If you like the color blue you will love the breathtaking icebergs as we explore the south pole together.

We will also begin a study on American artist Norman Rockwell who's humor-filled sketches entertained many in the early 20th century.
