

APRIL NEWSLETTER ROOM 9

Dear Families,

Yippee for Spring! I am so grateful for the warmer days and all the budding life around us! Next time it rains, I encourage you, as a family, to step outside and let the rain drops land on your face. It can be so refreshing!

In the classroom, we are preparing for parent/teacher conferences. This time, students will lead their conference and share all their hardworking with you. Sixth graders are working on their graduation project, their Island report as well as learning how to find cube roots abstractly. Fifth are learning about the renaissance and learning negative numbers. Fourth graders are learning about ancient civilizations like Babylonia and learning about exponents.

As always, thank you parents for all you do. I would like to end with a riddle: Who ever makes it, doesn't want it; whoever buys it doesn't use it; whoever uses it doesn't know it. What is it?
